WHERE THEY TRAIN

At nearly 15,000 square feet, the training facility is one of the largest in the nation. It is located on the first floor of the Bev Lewis Center for Women's Athletics.

Named in spring 2003, the Huntley Gymnastics Training Facility is one of the finest practice facilities in the country.

The Huntley Gymnastics Training Facility features state-of-the-art design with an open floor plan to work every area of gymnastics training.

Designed to reduce hard landings, the Huntley Gymnastics Training Facility is home to three vault runways with cushioned tracks and both foam and "resi" pits. With three bar work stations to train on, the Razorbacks can also use the channel pit for training. The practice facility has five beam stations with a variety of landing choices and a full-size, 40x40 floor exercise near the center of the room.

The gymnastics training room is located just steps from the floor exercise area and has a hydro-therapy room as well as a treatment area for athletes. The glass wall facing the practice facility allows the full-time staff to remain in the training room while still keeping the gym in full view.

The coaches' offices are also adjacent to the gym and also feature large windows facing into the practice facility.

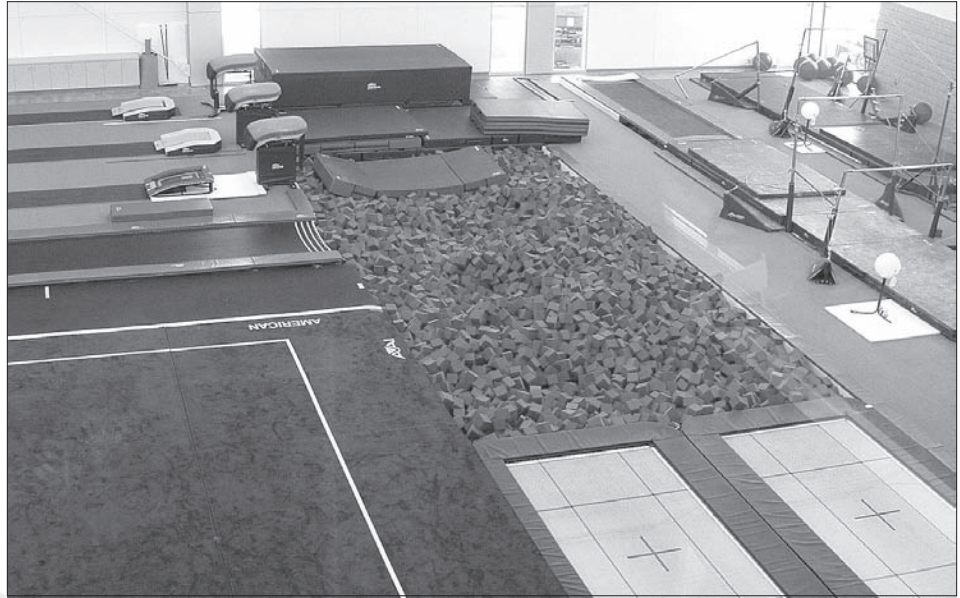

The Razorbacks enter their facility through the reception area and can directly access the gym or their locker room. The locker room area includes locker and dressing facilities, showers, a team meeting area, lounge and kitchenette for the athletes to use.

In addition to the offices and locker room suite, the Huntley Gymnastics Training Facility has a laundry and equipment room as well as storage exclusively for the Razorbacks.

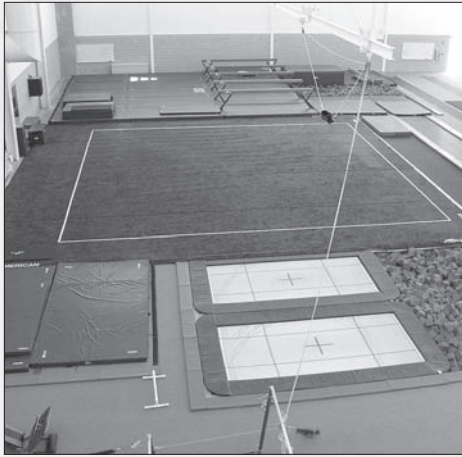

HUNTLEY GYMNASTICS TRAINING CENTER

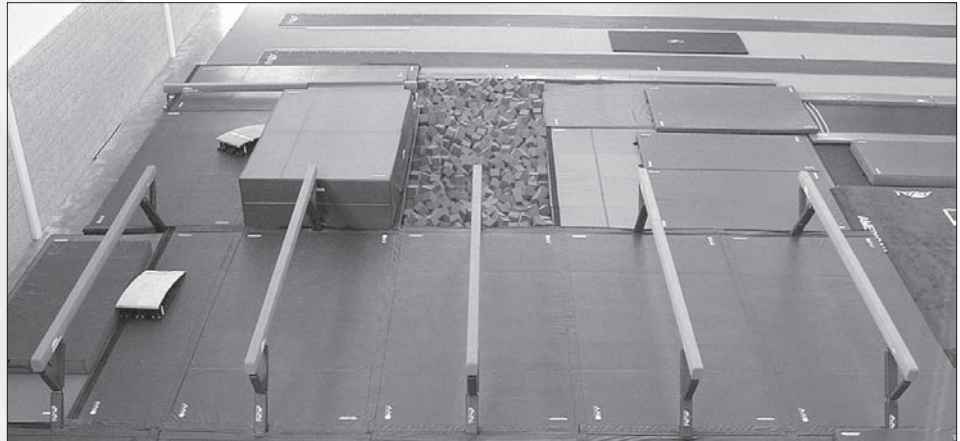

The curved entryway allows Razorbacks to pass through the reception area and head down to the coaches offices and out into the gym or turn left through the door and into the locker room.

The vault runways allow athletes to choose from several landing surfaces. The Razorbacks can also work on their tumbling passes on the floor exercise area and fall off the mat into a large "resi" pit.

The full-size floor exercise area anchors the room.

Five different beams make practices efficient, and the Razorbacks have several soft landings to choose from when trying new dismounts.

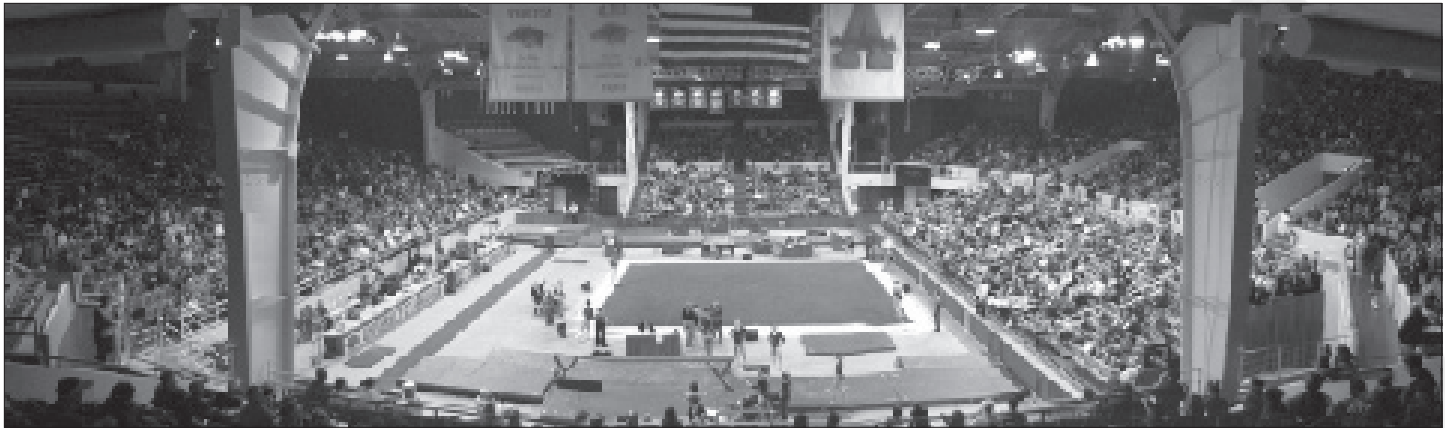

The coaches' offices and training room can be seen near the bars work stations.

A view of the bars from the observation deck, and a look at the vault tables from the floor exercise.

WHERE THEY COMPETE

When the University of Arkansas made the decision to welcome gymnastics as the 11th sport, the entire Athletics Department underwent a change.

The continued growth of the Athletics Department, including the addition of four sports in 10 years, has impacted the facilities at the University on a grand scale. The addition of gymnastics prompted Barnhill Arena, previously the largest volleyball-only facility in the country, to welcome its new roommate.

And Barnhill Arena did its best to throw one heck of a welcome party!

Barnhill began its adaptation to a volleyball/gymnastics facility with an internal face lift. Some of the changes included a new paint job in areas immediately surrounding the playing surface, new lights to accommodate the space requirements of gymnastics and a state-of-the-art sound system and scoreboards that are both Razorbacks and fan friendly.

When the Razorbacks finally reached campus in the fall of 2002, the fans came. In fact, fans came in droves and by the end of the 2003 season, Arkansas ranked fourth in the nation in attendance averaging 4,739 people per event.

Arkansas' season best came against No. 4 Alabama when 5,524 fans passed through the turnstiles for the meet. That mark ranked sixth-best in the nation for a single meet in 2005. The Alabama meet attendance was just one of a pair of 5,000-plus fans as Arkansas welcomed 5,427 against No. 5 Florida.

The Razorbacks saw 4,732 fans against No. 4 Georgia and 4,231 fans packed Barnhill against No. 16 Denver in the first meet ever in the arena.

And that was just the first season.

Arkansas' attendance numbers have continued to flourish and the Razorbacks have ranked in the top 11 each of their six seasons.

The Razorbacks welcomed the program's first NCAA Regional Championship in 2005 and hosted a big meet with the Super Six Challenge in 2006. Arkansas hosts the NCAA South Central Regional on April 4, 2009 in Barnhill.

ARKANSAS IN THE NATIONAL ATTENDANCE

The Razorbacks have ranked among the nation's elite teams in attendance from the first season that the doors opened in Barnhill Arena. The first-year Razorbacks averaged 4,739 fans that season and ranked fourth in the country for average attendance.

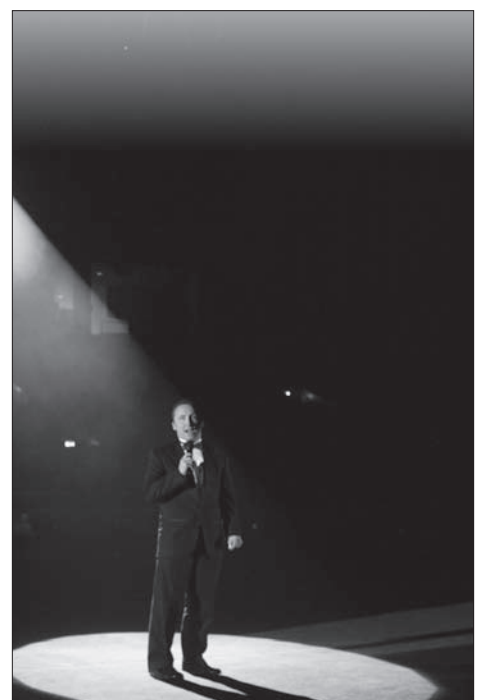

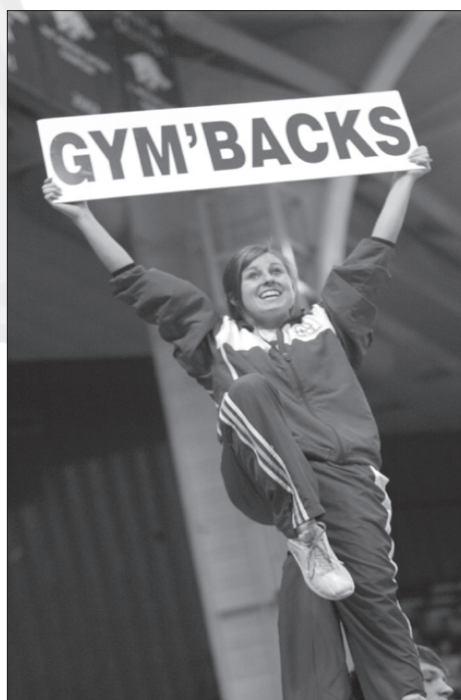

Arkansas repeated the following year again ranking fourth as the program made it's first appearance at the NCAA Regional Championships.

Since the program's inception in 2003, Arkansas has ranked in the top 15 in attendance every year. The Razorbacks have had three home meets with more than 5,000 fans in the seats toping out at 5,525 against No. 4 Alabama in 2003.

Arkansas ranked fourth in the country in 2003 and 2004, sixth in 2005, 11th in 2006, 12th in 2008 and 15th last year.

ARKANSAS GYMNASTICS

The Razorbacks are looking to make a name for themselves in the top 10 again this year.

The 2009 gymnastics season is fast-approaching and the Razorbacks can't wait.

Arkansas is coming off its best season in the six-year program history finishing 2008 with a pair of All-Americans and ranked 10th in the nation.

The Razorbacks expect to pick up where they left off with both All-Americans, Casey Jo Magee and Michelle Stout, back for their junior seasons.

Once again Arkansas faces one of the toughest schedules in the country, ending with the 2009 NCAA South Central Regional Championship in Barnhill Arena April 4.

Check out co-head coaches Mark and René Cook and their thoughts on each event for 2009.

"The team is set on maintaining our top 10 finish from the 2008 season and hope to improve upon it," said René. "We are looking forward to competing against the best teams in the country. It is sure to be an exciting season."

"The goal for this finalist and All-American junior Michelle Stout returns as the school record-holder to anchor the leadoff event along with fellow All-American Casey Jo Magee.

"This year we look to compete all 10.0 start values, primarily performing Yurchenko-style vaults," said Mark. "Most likely Michelle will anchor the team, followed by Jaime Pisani as the next strongest vault. Mariah Howdeshell will vie for a spot, and Alex LaChance should once again provide consistent performances on this event."

"The vault should be a solid event for us," said René. "Jaime and Michelle will be the top vaulters. However, we have veterans Casey Jo, Alex and Sarah Nagashima that will continue to make this a standout event for us. Mariah and Molly Lewis will also be relied upon."

UNEVEN BARS

Arkansas continued to improve on the uneven bars throughout 2008. The Razorbacks scored 49.175 at No. 1 Georgia and finished the year with a very solid 49.125 at the NCAA Championships.

Junior All-American Casey Jo Magee returns to lead Arkansas on this event.

"The junior class will make up the bulk of the bar line-up," said René. Casey Jo and standout Michelle will be the top two performers on the event and Sarah won't be far behind. We look to two freshmen, Genny Salvatore and Mariah Howdeshell, to be extremely competitive on this event as well.

Mariah has a beautiful line and good difficulty. Genny is consistent and powerful.

"Amy DeFilippo will be called upon to start off the line-up with her consistent performances and Jaime Pisani will be expected to compete on bars throughout the year."

"The junior class will take much of the responsibility on this event, with all four competing strong routines," added Mark. "Casey Jo, Michelle, Sarah and Amy should make bars a high-scoring event in 2009. Sarah made improvement with her execution, and will compete her twisting double layout this year. Also, keep an eye on Genny who has really come on in the pre-season and has earned a spot in the competition lineup."

year is to return to the NCAA Championship and place higher than we did last year," added Mark. "We want to continue to rise and knock on the door of the "Super Six" session. We also want to place higher at the SEC Championships than previous years and win more dual meets."

VAULT

The Razorbacks should be a strong vaulting team in 2009. Arkansas tied the school vault record twice last with with a 49.30 at the NCAA Regional Championship and against No. 9 Oklahoma late in the year. NCAA Championship event

BALANCE BEAM

The balance beam has been an event Arkansas fans have talked about since the first meet in 2003. Often thought of as the strongest event for the Razorbacks co-head coach René Cook takes special pride as it was her primary event as a collegiate gymnast.

"The beam will have the most change in performers from last season," said René Cook. "Casey Jo will still hold the top spot on this event and Amy will still provide a consistent and artistic routine. Stacy Bartlett is stronger and better than last season. After a full year of competition her confidence and aggressiveness should be improved. Look for Sarah to be a mainstay in this event as well. Her aggressiveness and artistic flair makes her routine stand out. Jaime, Michelle and Alex will be competing for the last two positions. Genny and Mariah will provide competitive depth on this event."

"There is a lot of talent on this event, and the key is tenacity," added Mark Cook "Casey Jo will anchor this event. We should also see solid performances by Amy, Sarah and Stacy. Stacy is expected to rise this year as one of our top performers on balance beam."

FLOOR EXERCISE

The floor exercise is always a fan favorite in every gymnastics meet. Energetic, up-beat music mixed with graceful dance and powerful tumbling make this the perfect event to anchor the gymnastics meet.

The Razorbacks were a solid floor team last year recording a season-best 49.35 against No.9 Oklahoma late in the season. Arkansas is deep with experience on the floor and again expects big things from this year's team.

"Floor will be a fun this year," said René Cook. "We have four returning starters from last season - Michelle Stout, Casey Jo Magee, Alex LaChance and Sarah Nagashima. Their routines will certainly be crowd pleasers. Molly will also be a main contributor on floor. She is a powerful and dynamic tumbler. Jaime should be one of our stronger floor routines. Her choreography is fun and her tumbling is quick and dynamic. Stacy and Mariah will add depth to this event. Both have solid tumbling along with fun choreography."

"Floor exercise will again be very entertaining, with new routines being performed by Molly and Jaime," said Mark Cook. "Alex, Sarah, Michelle and Casey Jo will be solid again this year. This should be an exciting event for us."

MEET THE STAFF

CO-HEAD COACH MARK COOK

Considered one of the finest technicians in women's collegiate gymnastics, Mark Cook accepted the challenge of starting a new program at Arkansas in May 2001.

Cook was called upon to expand the traditional role of a collegiate coach when he joined the staff. He was asked to build a program from the ground up, and he found himself consulting on the construction of one of the nation's best practice facilities; selecting, ordering and assembling equipment; and educating the Northwest Arkansas community on the Razorbacks' newest sport. All this was accomplished while he was also scouting, recruiting and signing the first-ever recruiting class for the University of Arkansas.

In just six seasons, Cook built Arkansas into a top 10 program. He guided the Razorbacks to five NCAA Regional appearances and two NCAA Championship team appearances.

Among Cook's most recent accomplishments is Arkansas' success in 2008. The Razorbacks were selected to attend the North Central Regional as the second seed behind No. 2 Utah. The Razorbacks answered the call finishing second and earning the program's second NCAA Championship team appearance.

Cook has guided Arkansas to five NCAA regional appearances and two NCAA championship appearances in six seasons with the Razorbacks.

Cook's goals expanded as he pushed the Razorbacks to want more than just an appearance. He guided the program to a 10th-place finish and helped a pair of Razorbacks, Michelle Stout and Casey Jo Magee, earn the program's first-ever All-America honors. Cook challenged the team to finish in the top 10, but he also challenged Arkansas' individuals, telling the Razorbacks they could have someone in the event finals.

Stout answered the call, earning a trip to the final day's competition on the vault. She finished fourth overall earning a spot in Razorback history as the first to reach the event finals.

In six seasons, Cook has coached one All-Southeastern Conference performer, four SEC Gymnasts of the Week, five SEC Community Service Team members, 46 SEC academic honorees and 44 NACGC/W Academic Scholar-Athletes.

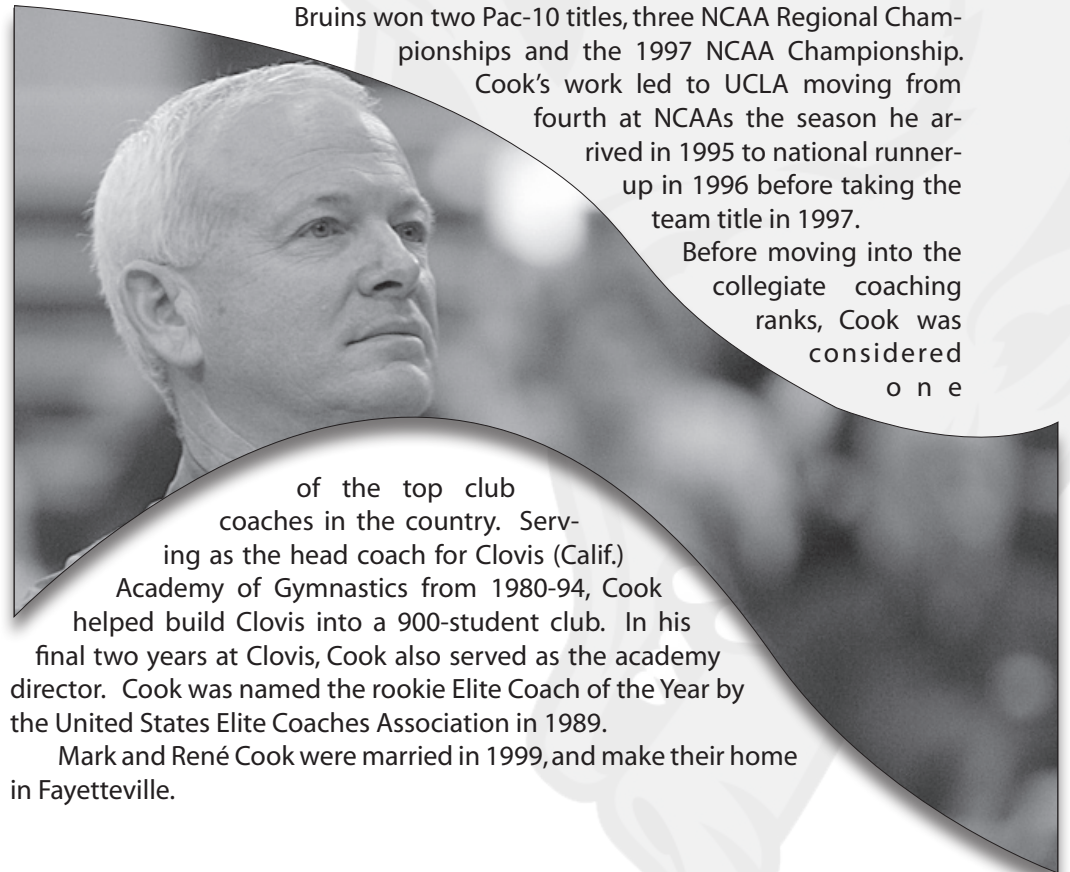

PRIOR TO ARKANSAS

Cook coached at Stanford for four seasons, leading the Cardinal to two Pac-10 titles, four NCAA Regional appearances and coached the program's first individual national champion. In addition, Cook guided Stanford to a pair of NCAA Championship team appearances finishing as high as eighth in the nation. Cook's success at Stanford is sprinkled throughout the record books with marks that still remain.

Prior to Stanford, Cook helped build NCAA and Pac-10 champions at UCLA as an assistant coach from 1994-97. During Cook's three years at UCLA, the Bruins won two Pac-10 titles, three NCAA Regional Championships and the 1997 NCAA Championship.

Cook's work led to UCLA moving from fourth at NAAs the season he arrived in 1995 to national runner-up in 1996 before taking the team title in 1997.

Before moving into the collegiate coaching ranks, Cook was considered of the top club coaches in the country. Serving as the head coach for Clovis (Calif.) Academy of Gymnastics from 1980-94, Cook helped build Clovis into a 900-student club. In his final two years at Clovis, Cook also served as the academy director. Cook was named the rookie Elite Coach of the Year by the United States Elite Coaches Association in 1989.

Mark and René Cook were married in 1999, and make their home in Fayetteville.

René Cook's first head coaching assignment was this: Turn Arkansas gymnastics into a nationally competitive, academically superior crowd-pleasing program.

Did we mention she was asked to do that from scratch? There was no gym, no equipment, no leotards and no team when Cook accepted the position as co-head coach for the inaugural Razorback program.

But on May 7, 2001, she accepted that challenge and quickly built Arkansas into a program that any coach would be proud to be a part of.

Cook, along with husband and co-head coach Mark, inked a recruiting class of 11 freshmen, convincing the team to take a chance on building a program from the ground up.

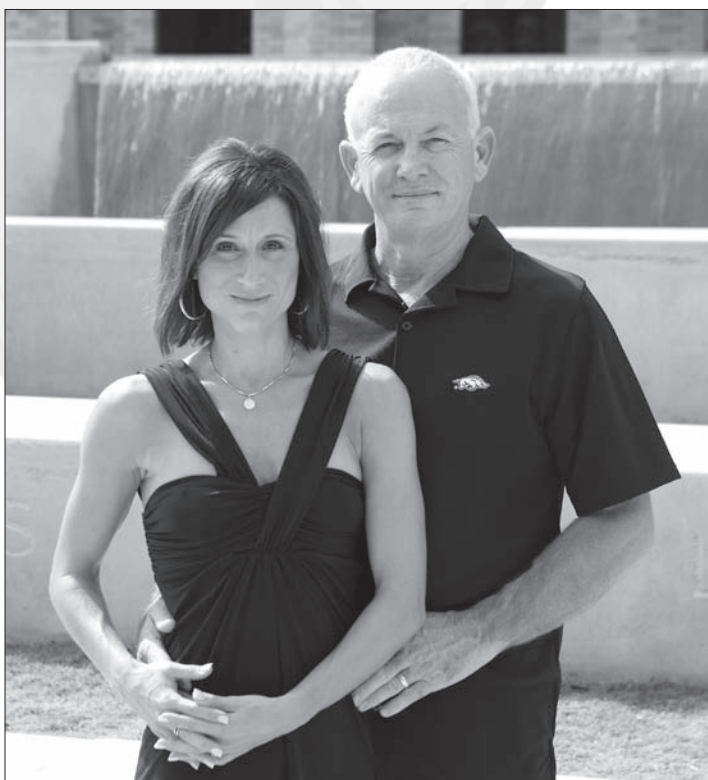

In 2006, the inaugural class took the Razorbacks to the program's first NCAA Championship appearance after a second-place showing at an NCAA Regional in Arkansas' own facility.

Cook's initial duties included consulting on the construction of one of the nation's best practice facilities and assembling a team good enough to compete in the country's toughest gymnastics conference, the Southeastern Conference.

Her efforts are critical to Arkansas' success in and out of the gym. As the primary beam coach, Cook's athletes rewrote the record book for the apparatus numerous times in the first six seasons. In addition, the second-year beam team defeated Alabama on beam in Tuscaloosa when the Crimson Tide was ranked fourth in the nation in 2004.

Cook also spearheads Arkansas' commitment in the classroom with the Razorbacks ranking as high as seventh in the nation among gymnastics teams for grade point average. Cook's teams have always posted a 3.30 GPA or better and she has coached 46 Southeastern Conference Academic Honor Roll members, 44 National Association for Collegiate Gymnastics Coaches for Women Academic Scholar Athletes and numerous Arkansas Athletics Department Honor Roll selections.

Cook paced the Razorbacks to a No. 19 ranking as a team and a program-best (at season's end) No. 10 on the balance beam to end the regular season in 2007.

Cook also plays an integral role in educating Northwest Arkansas about collegiate gymnastics. In addition to her full complement of coaching duties in the gym, she spends numerous hours recruiting and coordinating the staff's recruiting efforts.

PRIOR TO ARKANSAS

Together with her husband Mark, René helped lead Stanford to its first Pac-10 championship in women's gymnastics in 1998 and repeated the feat in 2001. Under the Cooks' tutelage, the Cardinal had its first national champion gymnast, Larissa Fontaine, on the vault in 1997.

The Cooks produced Stanford's first NCAA Regional champions as well, picking up four in their four seasons with the Cardinal. Stanford enjoyed success in the classroom as well, with 14 Scholastic All-America selections and 17 selections to the Pac-10 All-Academic Team during the Cooks' time in Palo Alto.

Before moving to Stanford as the assistant coach, Cook was the assistant coach at Penn State for the 1997 season. She helped the Lady Lions to the NCAA Northeast Region title and an 11th-place finish at the NCAA Championships.

Cook worked for three seasons as the assistant coach at Massachusetts prior to Penn State. At UMass, she was responsible for balance beam and assisting with recruiting.

The former René Lyst was a member of the Penn State gymnastics team from 1990-93. While with the Nittany Lions, Cook helped the team to top five finishes in 1991 and 1992 and was the 1992 Big Ten event finalist beam champion. She also won the beam title at the 1991 and 1993 NCAA Regional Championships.

SUPPORT STAFF

DIRECTOR OF GYMNASTICS OPERATIONS SAMANTHA CORTEZ

Samantha Cortez returns to the Arkansas gymnastics team as the Director of Gymnastics Operations in 2008-09.

A former Razorback gymnast, Cortez's duties with the team include day-to-day office management, coordination of meet officials and meet management.

As the Razorbacks' meet manager, Cortez schedules pre-meet entertainment, coordinates team entries, assists with manual scoring and team awards.

As a gymnast at Arkansas, Cortez guided the Razorbacks to four NCAA Regional appearances and the program's first two NCAA Championship appearances.

Cortez was a three-time All-Southeastern Conference selection and was honored by the NACGC/W as a member of its all-scholar team in 2008. In addition, Cortez had a team award, the Samantha Cortez Leadership Award, presented to her at the conclusion of her senior season.

AS A SOPHOMORE (2008)

With experience comes expectation and Amy DeFilippo lived up to hers in 2008. DeFilippo expanded her skill set as a sophomore to include vault after shinning on the bars and beam in 2007. The addition to the vault lineup was good and she has recorded a career-best 9.85 twice, first against No. 3 Florida and again against top-ranked Georgia. On bars, DeFilippo scored a season/career-high with a 9.875 in an SEC win over No. 14 Auburn and tallied a season-best 9.825 on beam. DeFilippo competed for the all-around title in the first two meets of the season scoring a career-best 38.925 in a Michigan quad meet. DeFilippo also enjoyed success in the classroom earning selection to the Southeastern Conference Academic Honor Roll in 2008.

AS A FRESHMAN (2007)

DeFilippo focused her attention on the bars and beam for the Razorbacks in her freshman season and her efforts were noticed. That mark was good for a tie for the event win and helped the Razorbacks to a big SEC win over the Tigers. DeFilippo finished the regular season with a career-best 9.850 on the bars and was consistent for Arkansas at the NCAA Regional Championship with a 9.80 on bars in a gutsy team performance. DeFilippo also scored well with a 9.825 in Arkansas' win at No. 23 Arizona State and rallied the Razorbacks with a solid performance at the 2007 NCAA Regional Championship scoring a 9.825 as well.

SCATS GYMNASTICS

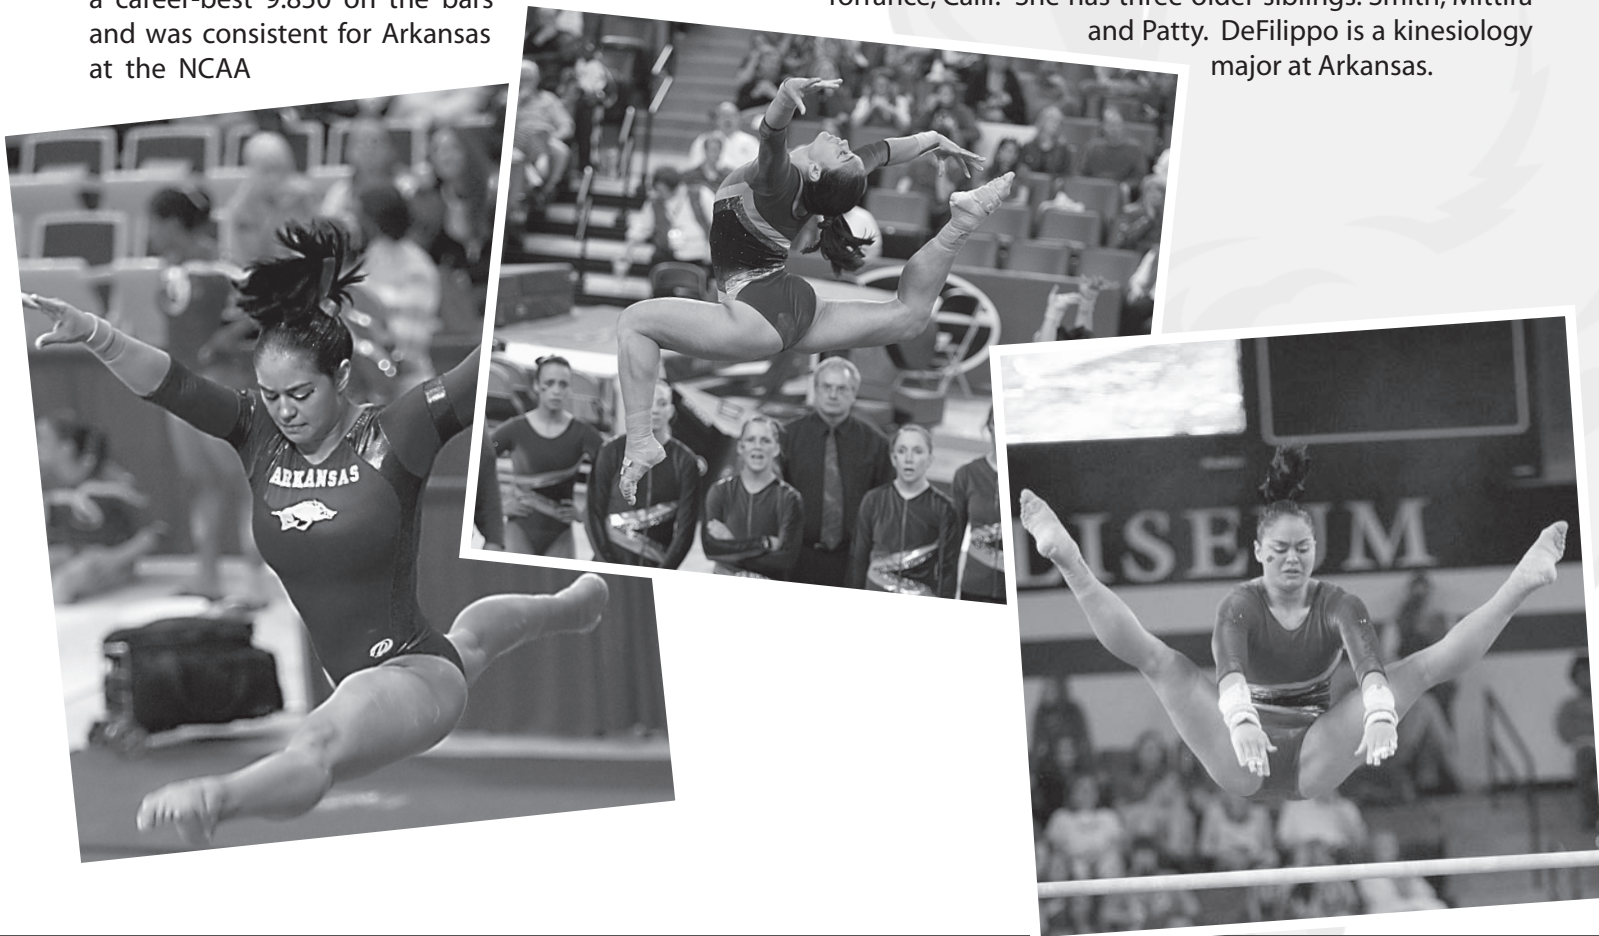

DeFilippo capped off her club career with an all-around title at the Southern California state meet, winning the beam title and finishing second on both the floor and bars. DeFilippo captured a fifth-place all around finish at the 2003 American Challenge and was fourth at the JO Nationals on beam in 2004. She added third-place finishes on beam, bars and the all around at Regionals that same year. She won the Junior Olympic National floor title in 2002 and was fifth on the vault, fourth on bars and fifth as an all-rounder that year.

THE SOUTHEASTERN CONFERENCE

The Southeastern Conference is widely regarded as the most dominating gymnastics conference in the NCAA.

Since the inaugural NCAA Championship in 1982, the SEC has had at least one team in all 27 national championship meets, with Florida being one of only two teams nationally (Utah is the other) to have appeared at all 19 contests prior to the Gators barely missing the cut in 2000. The SEC has also had at least one team finish in the Top-10 in the NCAA since 1982.

The SEC entered the record books at the 1998 NCAA Championships, becoming the only conference in women's collegiate gymnastics to sweep the top three spots. Georgia won its fourth championship title with the largest margin of victory in over 10 years. The Bulldogs outdistanced second-place Florida who finished just ahead of Alabama. It marked the 12th consecutive year that the SEC placed at least two teams in the final top five.

At the 1999 NCAA Championships, Georgia won its second consecutive and fifth overall first-place title. Alabama, Florida and LSU all finished in the top 10.

In 2000, both Georgia and Alabama finished in the top five, with LSU coming in at ninth. Georgia was the national runner-up in 2001, with Alabama finishing fourth and Florida seventh.

In 2002, Alabama once again brought the NCAA title back to the SEC by claiming its fourth National Championship, and brought the SEC its eighth overall title. The Crimson Tide edged out SEC rival Georgia 197.575-197.250, making the Bulldogs the NCAA runner-up for a second consecutive year and having SEC teams claim the top two spots for the first time since 1998. LSU finished eighth at the Nationals, while Florida placed 10th.

In 2003, the SEC sent five teams to the NCAA Championships for the third time, with four of those finishing in the top ten. Alabama finished as the runner-up, with Georgia finishing third. Florida finished seventh and LSU finished tenth. It is the 12th time that the SEC has had two teams finish in the top three. The SEC also brought home an individual title, as Alabama's Ashley Miles won the vault.

In 2004, the SEC placed three teams in the top five at the NCAA Championships. Georgia won the SEC's 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th national championships in 2005, 2006, 2007 and 2008.

In addition to phenomenal success on the team level, SEC athletes have also excelled at the individual level, claiming a total of 69 individual championships, including four in 2007.

In its own right, the SEC has swept all five individual titles on three separate occasions - 1991, 1993 and 1994.

♦2008 marked the 24th consecutive year that the SEC placed at least two teams in the final top five and the 16th consecutive year placing three in the top 10.

♦18 times in the past 24 years the SEC has placed at least four teams in the Top 10 at the NCAA meet, including 1991 1993 and 2008 when five teams were ranked.

SEC CHAMPIONSHIP MOVES TO NASHVILLE

The Southeastern Conference Championship has been in four venues in the six years Arkansas has fielded a team. The Championship moves again in 2009 taking place March 21, at 4 p.m. central at the Sommet Center in downtown Nashville, Tenn.. Host of several SEC men's and women's basketball tournaments, it is the first time a Nashville venue has hosted gymnastics.

Arkansas first competed at the SEC Championship in 2003 when Birmingham hosted the event at UAB. The championship moved to Duluth, Ga., in 2004 and 2005 when teams competed in a multi-purpose facility that also hosted a hockey team. The SEC Championship returned to Birmingham in 2006 at the Birmingham Jefferson Convention Center. For the first time in league history, the championship was competed on a platform with all of the events raised up off the floor in a set-up that more closely mirrored the national championship.

In 2007, the league championship moved to North Little Rock, Ark., and the platform was used. The North Little Rock venue has seen its share of high profile Southeastern Conference events having hosted the SEC Women's Basketball Tournament twice, first in 2003, and again in 2006. The 2008 event moved back to the Gwinnett Center in Duluth and Nashville's Sommet Center makes its debut this year.

SEC CHAMPIONSHIP REVIEW

The 11th-ranked Arkansas gymnastics team scored a 194.650 finishing sixth at the Southeastern Conference Championships in Duluth, Ga., in 2008. Co-head coaches Mark and René Cook tied for SEC Coach of the Year honors highlighting a successful championship.

Arkansas battled back for a strong finish on beam and floor but couldn't overcome low scores on the vault and bars to open the meet.

"This is the most pressure-filled meet of the season," said Mark Cook, "even more than the national championships. The pressure to perform is huge. It's exciting but the emotions are tough to control. We were happy to finish strong on the last two events."

Sophomore Michelle Stout led Arkansas in the all-around with a 39.075 followed by sophomore Casey Jo Magee with a 38.675.

Arkansas opened the contest on the vault after drawing one of the more favorable rotation orders for the meet. Junior Alexandra LaChance kicked things off with a solid 9.725 but a fall by the next competitor could have rattled the Razorbacks.

But it didn't. Sophomore Amy DeFilippo scored a 9.675 followed by a 9.625 from senior Samantha Cortez with tight scoring in the first rotation. Arkansas finished with back-to-back 9.80s from sophomores Stout and Sarah Nagashima as the Razorbacks settled into the long meet.

The Razorbacks had a bye in the second rotation using the time to regroup in the locker room.

DeFilippo led off for Arkansas on the bars after the bye. She executed a nearly flawless routine scoring a 9.70 getting things started.

The number two spot in the lineup was again problematic for Arkansas with a fall but senior Emily Peacock picked up her teammate with a solid routine and stuck landing garnering a 9.70.

Stout posted a 9.75 and Magee added a 9.80 helping Arkansas to a 47.95 for the event. The Razorbacks did not get a break going directly to beam in the fourth rotation.

Senior Samantha Cortez led off with a 9.75 for Arkansas and DeFilippo followed with a 9.775. The confidence in the beam rotation continued to climb with Peacock scoring a 9.85. That mark ties Arkansas' best beam performance at the SEC Championship.

Stacy Bartlett, the Razorbacks lone freshman, came through in the biggest meet of her career adding a 9.80 as Arkansas put together a one of their best beam scores in recent meets. Magee rounded out the Arkansas scoring tying Peacock with a 9.85 leading the Razorbacks to a 49.025. That score is the Razorbacks second-best beam total at the SEC Championships.

Arkansas had a bye in the fifth rotation returning to the arena where the Razorbacks finished on the floor exercise. Nagashima competed first turning in an up-beat, clap-along routine that scored a 9.75 getting Arkansas started. Stout matched Nagashima's energy with a solid performance for a 9.80.

The scores continued to climb for Arkansas as Magee added a 9.825 and LaChance counted a 9.80 for the Razorbacks. Seniors Cortez and Peacock anchored the floor with Cortez getting a 9.80 and Peacock finishing with a 9.825 for a 49.050 on the floor.

2008 NCAA REGIONAL REVIEW

The 2008 Razorbacks celebrate a second-place finish at last year's Regionals.

The 11th-ranked University of Arkansas gymnastics team vaulted its way to the 2008 NCAA Championships by way of a second-place finish at the 2008 NCAA North Central Regional Championship in Minneapolis, Minn.

Arkansas scored a 196.125, tying the school record with a 49.30 on vault in the team's final rotation of the night. The Razorbacks joined No. 2 Utah as the two advancing teams to the national championship. It was the second time in the six-year history of the Arkansas program the Razorbacks have advanced to the national championship.

"What a thriller," gushed co-head coach René Cook. "We were on fire tonight and I think we stuck more landings tonight than we have all season. We fought all year and finished strong and now we're going to nationals.

"We just can't thank our fans and parents enough," continued Cook. "Their energy not only carried us tonight but has been with us all season and we are grateful for their support and contributions."

Second-ranked Utah won the meet with a 196.950, followed by Arkansas' 196.125. No. 28 Minnesota was third with a 195.275, with No. 14 Arizona (194.275), No. 27 Southern Utah (193.575) and No. 23 Iowa (192.450) rounding out the scores.

Arkansas sealed its finish on vault after a solid floor routine got the momentum rolling. The Razorbacks tallied a 49.225 on the floor behind 9.90 from senior Samantha Cortez. Sophomore Michelle Stout tied her career-best with a 9.90 on vault as the scores soared for Arkansas.

The Razorbacks came off the vault waiting through a bye in the final rotation before scores were finalized. Adding to the thrill of advancing, Arkansas had several gymnasts on the awards stand.

Stout tied for second on vault while Cortez tied for fifth. Stout and sophomore Casey Jo Magee tied for second on bars and Cortez finished second on the floor. Magee finished third as an all-rounder as well.

"Michelle and Sam really had great meets," said Cook. "Their individual performances along with Jo really stood out but it was a complete team effort tonight. Mark and I couldn't be more proud."

Co-head coach Cook commented on her case of nerves prior to the start of the meet but the Razorbacks didn't seem to feel the same way opening with a 48.875 on bars as the NCAA North Central Regional got underway.

The Razorbacks' bar score moved Arkansas into first place after the first rotation as sophomore Sarah Nagashima's season-best 9.725. Magee and Stout both scored 9.825, followed by senior Emily Peacock's 9.775. Sophomore Amy DeFilippo added a 9.725 to round out the Razorback scores.

"It was a good start," said Mark Cook. "Nothing flashy – just solid gymnastics and a good starting place for the meet."

Arkansas battled through a couple of wobbles in the beam rotation but hung on for a 48.725 in the second event. DeFilippo tied her season-best with a 9.825 and Magee finished with a team-best 9.85 as the Razorbacks remained in the lead after two events.

The Razorbacks had a bye in the third rotation emerging from the locker room ready for the floor exercise. Assistant coach Dave Kuzara had the team ready for the floor and the Razorbacks responded with a near season-best 49.225 – a mark that is a program best at a regional competition.

Cortez led the team with a 9.90 paired with 9.85s from Magee and Alexandra LaChance. Stout contributed a 9.825 and Peacock added a 9.80 as Arkansas took firm control of second place in the meet.

ARKANSAS HOSTS A 2009 NCAA REGIONAL

ARKANSAS HOSTS 2009 REGIONAL

The Razorbacks were selected to host the 2009 NCAA South Central Regional in Barnhill Arena. It is the second time Arkansas has hosted a regional (2006). Arkansas finished second at the Fayetteville regional as the program made its first appearance at the NCAA Championship hosted by Oregon State. Tickets for the event will be available in the fall of 2008 with more information available at ArkansasRazorbacks.com.

ABOUT THE REGIONAL

For the second time in program history, the Razorbacks have been selected to host the South Central Regional. Arkansas first hosted a regional in 2006 upsetting No. 9 UCLA to earn the program's first NCAA Championship trip. That season, No. 3 Florida won the event, followed by No. 18 Arkansas, No. 9 UCLA, No. 30 Illinois, No. 42 Illinois-Chicago and No. 49 Southeast Missouri State.

HOW DOES IT WORK?

The top 18 teams in the country are seeded and sent to one of six regional sites (unless they are hosting). The other four teams in each regional come from that regional's regular season teams.

For example, last year the Razorbacks were ranked high enough to be sent to the North Central Regional. Fourteenth-ranked Arizona was the other non-NC member. The Razorbacks and Wildcats were joined by North Central members Utah, Minnesota, Southern Utah and Iowa.

WHO IS IN THE SOUTH CENTRAL REGION?

The teams in the South Central Region include Arkansas, Arizona, Arizona State, Illinois, Illinois-Chicago, Illinois State, Missouri, Nebraska, Northern Illinois, Oklahoma, Southeast Missouri State and Texas Woman's University.

DATES

Arkansas hosts the 2009 South Central Regional on Saturday, April 4, beginning at 6 p.m. central in Barnhill Arena.

TICKETS

Tickets for the 2009 South Central Regional are $10 for adults and $5 for a youth tickets. Please contact the Razorback Ticket Office at 800-982-HOGS (4647) for more information.

One of the most well-known photos in Razorback gymnastics history captures Samantha Cortez's reaction when the scoreboard displays Arkansas' second-place regional finish in 2006. The second-place finish sent Arkansas to its first NCAA Championship as a four-year-old program.

2008 NCAA CHAMPIONSHIP REVIEW

University of Arkansas sophomores Michelle Stout and Casey Jo Magee became the Razorbacks' first all-Americans leading the No. 11 Razorbacks to a fifth-place finish in Session I of the 2008 NCAA Championships in Athens, Ga., Thursday.

Stout tied for the first session win with a 9.90 on the vault earning first-team all-America honors while Magee opened the meet with a 9.90 on bars finishing tied for fifth overall. Magee added a tie for fifth on vault as well earning second-team honors on both events. Magee finished 10th in the all-around competition.

"Michelle is the first one," said Arkansas co-head coach René Cook. "What can you say? She just nailed her vault. It's her strongest event and she really hit it. Jo started the meet for us on bars and scored a 9.90. That's hard to do in any meet much less the national championships. Her bar performance was phenomenal and we're proud of both of them. They know that the honor is not just for them as individuals but for this whole team and for the program. We've taken a step towards the next level today."

"It was awesome," said Stout after the meet. "We wanted to go out and have fun and we did that. It (All-America) is an amazing feeling. I just wanted to do my job and I tried to relax and just do what I do in practice."

Arkansas' fifth-place showing with a 195.825 is one place better than the team's sixth-place session finish in the program's first NCAA Championship in 2006.

In addition to the All-America honors and the best finish in program history, Arkansas celebrated the conclusion of the careers of seniors Samantha Cortez and Emily Peacock.

At 12:19 p.m. Eastern, Amy DeFilippo signaled she was ready and the NCAA Championships got underway for the Razorbacks. Things started with a bang for the Razorbacks as they posted a 49.125 – their second best mark of the year to open the meet.

Magee paced Arkansas with a 9.90 tying both her season and career bests. A 9.85 from Stout and a 9.825 from Peacock helped the team effort. Sophomore Allison Daniels added a 9.80 and sophomores DeFilippo and Sarah Nagashima scored 9.75s with Nagashima tying her season high with the effort.

The solid performance gave Arkansas the lead after the first of six rotations in the meet.

The Razorbacks were solid on the beam in the second rotation before moving to a bye scoring a 48.575. DeFilippo led Arkansas with a 9.775 as the scores were tighter on beam than in the first rotation. Junior Alexandra LaChance posted a 9.725 despite not competing on beam for the last six meets.

Freshman Casey Jo Magee at the 2007 NCAA Championship

Despite having a bye in the third rotation, Arkansas slipped to fifth overall in the team standings as teams evened out with two event scores each. But the Razorbacks roared back on floor with a 48.975 led by Peacock's 9.825 in the final routine of her collegiate career. Three consecutive 9.80s from Magee, LaChance and Cortez helped Arkansas score well on the event.

Arkansas concluded the meet on the vault – the team's best event this year. The Razorbacks scored a 49.150 on vault paced by Stout who tied her season-best and tied for the win with a 9.90 moving on to the finals Saturday. In addition to Stout, Magee tied for fifth on vault with a 9.85 followed by Cortez with a 9.825. LaChance added a 9.80 for Arkansas.

WHERE DREAMS COME TRUE

The long wait was over and the No. 18 University of Arkansas gymnastics team made the program's first appearance at the NCAA Championship in Corvallis, Ore., in 2006.

Arkansas, wrapping up its fourth season of gymnastics, became one of the final 12 teams competing after a second-place finish at the South Central Regional in Barnhill April 8.

Arkansas opened in the evening session Thursday facing Georgia, Iowa State, Oregon State, Florida and Arizona State.

Arkansas entered the meet as the underdog as the program's first senior class had guided the Razorbacks from a start-up to a contender. Seniors Katie Hardman, Melissa Leigh, Audra Loveless, Hannah McLeod and Dana McQuillin competed in their final meet in the Cardinal and White in Corvallis.

Arkansas scored a 194.375 finishing behind a blistering 197.300 from defending national champion Georgia who won the second session to advance. Iowa State snuck in ahead of Florida with a 196.250 while the Gators posted a 196.225 as both teams advanced to the finals.

For the sixth straight year, Arkansas has been in the top 35 in the nation academically, peaking at No. 7 in 2005, according to the National Association for Collegiate Gymnastics Coaches for Women.

Last year, Arkansas posted a 3.3008 team grade point average with four Razorbacks earning individual academic honors.

"We are so proud of the work the girls have done in the classroom as well as on the competition floor," said co-head coach René Cook. "Doing well in school and making good choices in life translate to success in the gym, and that's what we're seeing from this special group of athletes."

Former Razorback Allison Daniels led a group of four gymnasts who earned selection to the all-scholar team. Daniels was tied for first overall with a perfect 4.00 GPA. Samantha Cortez made it three in a row finishing with a 3.88 GPA in psychology. Cortez graduated in May and is returning to Arkansas as the Razorbacks' director of gymnastics operations while pursuing her master's degree this fall. Emily Peacock was selected for the fourth time with a 3.63 GPA in journalism. She graduated in May as well. Senior Alex LaChance rounds out Arkansas' individual honors. LaChance is a three-time selection with a 3.57 GPA in kinesiology at Arkansas and is the lone returning senior for the Razorbacks in 2008-09.

ARKANSAS ACADEMIC HONORS

Each semester, the University of Arkansas Athletics Department recognizes its student-athletes success in the classroom with selection to a department honor roll. The Athletics Department honors student-athletes who earn a perfect 4.0 grade point average as Academic Champions. Student-athletes with grade points ranging from 3.50-3.99 earn Athletic Directors List honors and those with grades in the 3.00-3.49 range are honored on the Honor Roll. Here's a look at the Razorbacks' all-time selections.
