

University of Arkansas, Fayetteville

ScholarWorks@UARK

Animal Science e-Newsletter

Animal Science

8-2015

Animal Science E-Newsletter, August 2015

University of Arkansas, Fayetteville. Department of Animal Sciences

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarworks.uark.edu/ansc-enews>

Citation

University of Arkansas, Fayetteville. Department of Animal Sciences. (2015). Animal Science E-Newsletter, August 2015. Animal Science e-Newsletter. Retrieved from <https://scholarworks.uark.edu/ansc-enews/25>

This Periodical is brought to you for free and open access by the Animal Science at ScholarWorks@UARK. It has been accepted for inclusion in Animal Science e-Newsletter by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks@UARK. For more information, please contact scholar@uark.edu.

Animal Science E-Newsletter

Welcome Back!!

There is always something going on during the first week of school. Take a look below at just a few of the "Welcome to Campus" events Animal Science both participated in and held for our students.

Razorbash 2015

Animal Science Freshman Ice Cream Social

ANSC Student Chosen as National Junior Southdown Association Ambassador

Lensey Watson was recently chosen as a national ambassador for the American Junior Southdown Association. The AJSA ambassador program was started in 2007 to provide a way for juniors to become actively involved in promoting the Southdown sheep breed on a local, state, regional and national level.

The duties of an ambassador include representing the Southdown breed at local and state shows as well as the National Junior Show, the All American Junior Show and the North American International Livestock Exposition. The ambassadors actively participate in the Southdown breed association in the following ways: provide visual displays at shows, actively participate in state, regional, and national youth events, writing articles for livestock publications, submitting photos and networking with other Southdown junior members.

Watson spent the summer traveling to several Southdown events, including the Western Regional Southdown Shows at the San Diego County Fair in Del Mar, Calif.; and the All American Junior Sheep Show and the North East Regional Southdown Show in West Springfield, Mass. At these events she had leadership responsibilities including promoting the display booth, scavenger hunt and ice cream social.

She recently returned from leadership training held at the University of Tennessee where she was elected vice president of the Junior Southdown Association Ambassadors. "I feel that this is an honor to get to serve this group at this level as I have only been a member of the Southdown Association for two years," she stated.

Watson is currently planning clinics that will be presented during the Arkansas-Oklahoma State Fair and the Arkansas State Fair to promote the Southdown breed. She will also be assisting with the Skill-A-Thon, Stars over Louisville Southdown Sale, the National Junior Southdown Show and the evening social for all Southdown exhibitors during NAILE.

Watson is a senior animal science major with a pre-veterinary medicine concentration. After graduation, she hopes to attend veterinary school and become an equine surgeon. }

Lensey
Watson