Gann Defends Dissertation

Steve Gann

Steve Gann successfully defended his doctoral dissertation "Electrode Materials and Oxygen Sensing," May 13. His research was performed under the direction of David Paul.

Gann began his graduate studies in 2007. He is from Russellville and will join the faculty at Arkansas Tech.

Phi Beta Kappa

The Phi Beta Kappa Alpha Chapter of Arkansas inducted eight chemistry majors into the society this spring. There were 82 total initiates in the 2010 class.

Chapter members must be invited and be seniors in the Fulbright College. Initiates rank in the top ten percent of their graduating class. Undergraduate research and special academic experiences are also considered.

Safety Tip

Laboratory gloves should NOT be worn for an extended time.

Normally a few minutes of use followed by disposal is appropriate. If something leaks through the glove it will cause significantly more damage because the glove holds the material in contact with the skin.

Hands should be washed after the gloves are removed

Research Experience for Undergraduates

The department is hosting an NSF funded REU program for the 22nd consecutive year.

During the 10-week summer program students will do research in the lab of a chosen mentor and attend weekly meetings. In late June, they will travel to central Arkansas for an on-site tour of NCTR.

Outside the lab, the group will go canoeing, bowling, roller-skating, and visit Devil's Den State Park and Lake Fayetteville.

Summer students in the HHMI, REU and INBRE programs will present their research in a combined poster session Thursday, July 22. There are four INBRE students on campus in other departments.

Current institutions, hometowns and campus research mentor are listed below. Not pictured is Amanda Hicks, a student at John Brown University whose hometown is Colorado Springs, Colo.

Student Selected for Harvard Workshop

Doctoral candidate Randy Francisco Espinal Cabrera has been selected to participate in the Fulbright Workshop on Effective University Teaching in STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Math) Fields, at Harvard University June 27 to July 3. His research is under the direction of Julie Stenken.

His selection as a Fulbright Grantee was by the Western Hemisphere Fulbright Program at the U.S. Department of State in coordination with LASPAU Academic and Professional Programs for the Americas.

LASPAU is a nonprofit organization affiliated with Harvard University with the mission of providing access to global education opportunities, stimulating knowledge generation and transfer, and promoting intercultural understanding throughout the Americas.
